

STALKING AWARENESS TABLING FLYERS & GIVEAWAYS

Setting up an information table on your campus or in your community can be a great way to raise awareness about the dangers of stalking. Tabling efforts are most effective with the use of eye-catching visuals, interactive elements, and giveaways. Use these tabling flyers and/or giveaway ideas to grab the attention of your campus or community in your efforts to raise awareness around stalking! January is National Stalking Awareness Month \(NSAM\), but awareness efforts are important year-round. We encourage you to raise awareness about stalking and reflect on how to better support victims and hold offenders accountable. Share your activity ideas with SPARC so we can spread the word!

8.5x11 Tabling Flyers

Download and print the 8.5x11 flyers to draw attention to your table! These flyers are intended to dispel some common myths about stalking that are reinforced through the ways that stalking is portrayed in media. These flyers have questions included to interact with people when they visit your table and engage them in conversations about the realities of stalking. Feel free to brainstorm additional myths about stalking that you want to dispel and create your own flyers as well! Add information about local support services or your contact information to the bottom of each sign you use.

Tabling Giveaways

Giveaways can be a great way to get people interested in your educational table, and we want them to walk away with information about stalking as well. We've come up with some ideas for giveaways and created information tags that you can print and attach to them. These giveaways are intended to dispel some common myths about stalking that are reinforced through the ways that stalking is portrayed in media. Feel free to come up with your own giveaway ideas to engage with your campus/community about the realities of stalking! Add information about local support services or your contact information to the bottom of each information tag you use.
